Building trust every day

Engineer your future.

Big thinking. Big network. Big possibilities. Why does that describe working at Rockwell Collins? Because the first moon transmission was our achievement. So was the development of GPS. What about networked battlespaces and NextGen air transportation systems? Yes and yes. Big ideas call for big thinkers...and we have a lot of them. In fact, we're building a global workforce of men and women with diverse backgrounds, viewpoints and ideas who are committed to our foundation of innovation.

For more than 75 years, we have strived to foster a working environment that promotes collaboration and teamwork and celebrates diversity in its employees. Here you will discover knowledgeable, skilled and friendly colleagues. A technology-rich culture that encourages innovation and rewards ingenuity. And most importantly, countless opportunities for you to thrive and grow, professionally and personally.

Our workplace gives you the opportunity to work alongside some of the brightest minds in the industry as you hone your skills and realize your career aspirations. Whether you're looking for an internship or co-op employment – or a place where you can work full time and leave your mark on the world – we offer opportunities for you to grow your skills and build your expertise. Career opportunities at Rockwell Collins span the following career paths:

- > Engineering
- > Information technology
- > Corporate
- > Operations
- > Sales and marketing
- > Program/project management
